NP team thanks Souderton

As the parent of a North Penn High School swimmer, I would like to thank the coaching staff and administration at Souderton High School for sharing their pool with our swim and dive teams so that they may continue their training. Due to an injury in the North Penn pool last week the pool has been drained and shut down for repairs. Souderton's generosity is a true gesture of sportsmanship between two local rivals. I would also like to thank Central Bucks East and Central Bucks South for hosting a dual meet and league diving championships which were originally scheduled to be held at the North Penn pool.

Didn't like tattoo feature
 Why would you put that picture of the brides and grooms with their ugly tattoos on the front page of Lifestyle?

You ruined our breakfast. My wife said, "I can't look at that paper."

These people are maimed for life, and you glorify them. What affect will this have on our youths.

Our dermatologist loves it. She has made a fortune removing tattoos when people come to their senses.

Where is the money going?

In the 1800s, New York City was controlled by Tammany Hall. "Boss" Tweed built a courthouse called (now) the Old New York County Court House. It is a very attractive building that was estimated to cost $3 million dollars in the 1860s.

By the time it was completed, it cost the taxpayers $12 million dollars to build. It was completed many years later.

Keep this story in mind when you hear “the education advocates” arguing for more money to be spent on urban education.

Like in the Tweed days, money somehow gets lost, and the taxpayers are requested to spend more
